RAT CAUSES BIG DEFEAT.

Suffragists Stampede in State-house and Solons Smile and Vote Nay.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
LANSING (Mich.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There are legislators who say that the defeat of the women's suffrage resolution in the State House of Representatives Tuesday was due to a common, pestiferous rat. Just as the resolution was put to vote the rat went up an elevator with Mrs. D. G. F. Warner, suffragette wife of one of the solons. She had as lively a time as any other woman would under the circumstances and when the elevator stopped the rat went with her into the crowd of suffragettes watching the vote. A hysterical time ensued. The solons watched as they voted and, with sardonic grins, said nay.

river grade haul from San Francisco into the valley. There are many peculiar features about the opinion or opinions: for one is written by Commissioners Eschelman and Gordon, a dissenting opinion is written by Loveland, and a third opinion is signed by all three. Aside from that this decision is considered of great importance, as it gives the southern city a certain advantage, according to San Francisco jobbers, over the local shippers. The principal reasons the two commissioners, Gordon and Eschelman, give for refusing to grant San Francisco a rerearing and to suspend the effective date when the reduced rates from Los Angeles will go into effect, is "that for nearly ten years, although there has been a great increase in the volume of traffic from Los Angeles to San Joaquin Valley points, there has been no reduction of the rates, and furthermore, that the cost of fuel during that period has been greatly reduced. That the railroads have no content."

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.
NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—It was announced today that warrants were issued by a justice of the peace for Louis F. Galletta, dock master on pier 7 of the Central Railroad; A. Hamilton, general freight agent of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; James Healing, owner of the lighter Katherine W.; J. W. Morris, freight agent of the Central Railroad at Communipaw; R. W. of R. G. Morse, assistant manager of the E. I. Dupont de Nemours Company; Frederick Peters, manager of the same company; Charles Ritter, Capt. Burr St.
John, superintendent of transportation of the company, in connection with yesterday's explosion that caused the death of more than thirty persons.
The warrants charge manslaughter, criminal negligence and violation of the city ordinance.
The railroad officials in question are connected with the freight department, the docks and transportation department, while the powder company officers are those connected with the shipment of dynamite.

ALLEGED FORGER FIGHTING.

Wants in Jail Two Weeks for Detective to Take Him to Los Angeles;
Now Seeks Liberty.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
EVANVILLE (Ind.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gilbert Jones, arrested two weeks ago on information from Los Angeles, Cal., that he was wanted there for forging a $100 check, brought habeas corpus proceedings yesterday, declaring that he had been deprived of his liberty long enough.
Jones agrees to return without requisition papers, but it appears that a detective on the way here to get him is storm-bound in Colorado and may not arrive for several days. In the meantime the alleged forger expects to do all in his power to gain his liberty. He is confident that, even if taken back to Los Angeles, he will be able to show
he is innocent.

That Will Be Nevada If All Proposed Reform Bills Pass the State Legislature.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
CARSON (Nev.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If the reform bills proposed or to be presented before the present Nevada Legislature are passed, this State will be assured a virtue beyond the expectations of even the wildest dreamer.
An anti-divorce measure was presented today calculated to do away with the influx of outside divorcees and the elimination of the colony in Reno. An anti-price fight bill has so far introduced, to put an end to any future Jeffrey-Johnson fiascos;
a corrupt practice law is being drafted;
being made; a measure providing for correct weights and measures has passed both houses, and added to all these are forthcoming a bank guarantee bill, an anti-cigarette law, the recall, initiative and referendum;
woman's suffrage, a bill giving woman the right to hold office, a bill to regulate the sale of drugs, and the prohibition of marriages between whites and Mongolians or Japanese.
Such a wave of reform is sweeping over the State since elimination of gambling last October that it is highly probable that a large majority of reform measures introduced will pass
both houses and be submitted to Gov.
Oddie for his approval.

Federal Cavalry Makes Sally Upon Train Bearing In-

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Three o'clock Friday afternoon is the hour set for the attack on Juarez by the insurrectos, according to couriers from Gen. Orozco's army. The consuls in Juarez, including the American consul, are to be notified, in accordance with international law, twelve hours in advance of the attack.
The surrender will then be demanded and unless it is evacuated, shelling with machine guns and dynamite guns will begin. Americans are being warned away from Juarez as feeling against them is bitter on the part of the Federal forces. The postoffice and Banco Nacional have been moved from Juarez to El Paso.

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ciudad Juarez, in a fever of excitement since midnight last night, when the delayed Mexican Central train brought the news that Orozco and his army of one thousand insurrectos were marching upon it, was thrown into a panic tonight when a terrific explosion occurred southeast of the town. The government powder storehouse, which had been built on the mesa, was blown up by the police, acting under orders of the military authorities, to keep the insurrectos from capturing the ammunition should they attack Juarez tonight.

All of the house tops are fortified and the public buildings have been converted into forts to withstand the attack of the rebels, who are expected to arrive at any moment. They were last reported fourteen miles out of the city and marching in the direction of the Plaza, with a flank movement in the direction of the Sierra Madre Mountains. No one has slept in the Mexican town since last night, when the report was brought of Orozco's approach.

A troop of cavalry which was sent out yesterday attacked the advance guard of rebels on board a freight train. The train was derailed and the rebels fired into the cars, wounding the American engineer, Hay, and his Mexican fireman, and exploding a car of dynamite which was being used to blow up the track to prevent troops being sent out from Juarez to attack them.

CLAIM FIFTY REBELS KILLED.

The Federal officers claim that fifty rebels were killed in the wreck and the accompanying attack, although this is denied by the revolutionary leaders. The derailment occurred about twenty miles south of Juarez, between that town and Samalayuca, and the advance guard was preparing the way for a general attack on the town when the explosion occurred. Two Federal soldiers, who were near the car of explosives, were killed, and three wounded.

Riderless horses of the Federal cavalry have been coming in from the scene of this fight all morning and it is thought more have been killed. The three wounded soldiers were brought in on handcars and taken to the Municipal Hospital. The Mexican fireman was brought to El Paso and operated on today. The trainmen were running the freight train which was carrying the insurrectos' party when the Federalists fired on them. Since this setback the insurrectos have hesi-tated about attacking Juarez until a party of reinforcements numbering 300 can join them from the south.

An effort was made today to get an American train crew to go to Casas Grandes for Federal reinforcements, but they refused after

CALIXICO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arizona Charlie, a sharpshooter known all over the Southwest, is in the revolutionists' camp this evening, having crossed the line to learn the strength of the rebel forces commanded by the anarchist leaders from Los Angeles. Arizona Charlie has for twenty-one years been sheriff of Maricopa county, Ariz., and is a brother of Sheriff Mobley Meadows, who is in command of the army of deputies at Calixico and who accompanies him.
Estimates of the insurrectionist force against Mexican railroads are high as 600. The rebels, who openly appear nightly in the unpoliced town of Mexicali, tonight claim they have a cash fund of $12,000.
Eight Americans are known to have crossed the line today and cast their lot with the insurgents, despite the espionage of the border line men. One drunken I.W.W. member of the mob said today that his chiefs receive surreptitious orders every day from lead-

ELKINS (W. Va.) Feb. 2.—[Exsation was caused here today when it became known that Mrs. Hallie D.

Elkins, widow of Senator Stephen D.
Elkins, had of her own initiative renewed the fight in the Elkins family, which had been somewhat allayed by the manner in which the late Senator had distributed his vast fortune. She was not satisfied, however, with the will of her late husband, but had filed at the office of County Clerk Rowan an article renouncing the provisions that had been made for her in the will of her late husband.
By relatives of Mrs. Elkins it was stated today that she desired to make even better provisions for her own children than had been done by her husband in his will. In that document Senator Elkins so arranged matters that his own children, including
Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Weidemann,

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of Edward St. John, assistant treasurer of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, was found in the surf today at the foot of West Fifth street, Coney Island. The body was fully clad. The dead man was 60 years old.
Mr. St. John left the Westinghouse Company's offices at 5 o'clock last evening. His private secretary said he had been in poor health for several months and that he had complained of being unable to sleep for weeks.
A high officer of the Westinghouse company was informed late this afternoon of the death of St. John. This man, on the promise that his name should not be revealed as having given the information, said:
"The news is more shocking to me than I can tell. It is true that from an examination of the books, which began yesterday, we have learned that Mr.
St. John's accounts were short. We knew that he had been speculating in Wall street and made the examination out of precaution.
"The examination has done far enough now to assure us that the shortage is less than $50,000 and may be very much less. Had he come to us and made a clear breast of his difficulties we would have found a way to keep him in our employ indefinitely."
St. John was bonded to an extent which guaranteed the Westinghouse company from loss, even though his shortage reached the outside limit of $50,000.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive

that Montreal has experienced for ten years is now raging here. The train service both in and out of Montreal is utterly disorganized.
Since the early hours of this morning seven inches of snow has fallen over a radius of fifty miles around the city.
This of itself would not cause any great inconvenience, but the fall is accompanied by zero temperature and by a gale of wind of a velocity of twenty-five miles an hour.
Huge drifts are being formed on the railway lines and as soon as these are cut through by the snow plows they are filled up again by the wind. The trouble seems to be most severe on the lines running west from Montreal.

The Canadian Pacific Railway liner

The liner was making a very fast voy-

speed had to be reduced.
Capt. Foster arrived off the harbor this evening, but the storm was so fierce that he decided to lay to until it subsided.

OTTAWA IS SHUT OFF FROM REST OF WORLD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ottawa is shut off from the rest of the world today by the worst blizzard it has experienced in ten years. The storm extends from Fernie, B. C., to Montreal, N. B., and their train service on all roads is badly demoralized, while the freight service has come to a standstill all over Canada east of the Rocky Mountains.
The street car service here is abandoned today. Several thousand visiting horsemen, bookmakers and their followers and others who are here to see the annual ice races, are snowed in at their hotels. The race meet was to have opened today, but will probably not open before Saturday.

WEATHER IS FREAKY ALL OVER COUNTRY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] While Ottawa, Ont., was being smothered and blizzard-swept and all of Canada from British Columbia to New Brunswick felt the sting of wintry blasts, today there was an indoleant four-mile-an-hour breeze in Texas and on the Pacific Coast and the brightest of sun warming up the atmosphere in places until the mercury rose to over 80 degrees in the shade.
Men sweated in dusty trains on the Arizona desert and longed for a breath of fresh cool air, while their Canadian neighbors looked from frost-covered windows out upon a raging storm and craved the benison of a bit of warm sunshine.
Down in San Antonio, Tex., it was 82 degrees on the shady side of the house. The sky was cloudless and the leaves of the semi-tropical trees scarce stirred. In New Orleans it was 80 above and not a blot on the sky. Gardeners in the alluvial lands of the delta region were in thin overalls and thinner shirts. Perspiration poured from their faces as they piled the hoe to the growing weeds. For a part of the day Tulsa, Okla., basked in the remnant of the 90 degree brand of weather, which heated the blood of the people yesterday. Then the fringe of the breath of Canada began to be felt and within a period of twelve hours there was almost a sheer drop of the temperature from 90 degrees in the shade to 29 anywhere.
Jacksonville, Fla., lasted through the day to a 76-degree temperature. Just like Tampa except at the latter clouds fleeed the sky and hid the sun most of the day. Silverdale, La., ranged in temperature from 61 to 74.
Children in Duluth were still kept from school by drifts of snow and icy

Liquor Regulation Plan Now
Up to Senate.

BY W. R. WILLIAMS.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Woman Suffrage and Local Option marched almost hand in hand through the assembly today with big victories. There were more women to applaud local option than were present to await the triumph of votes for women. There were present more men for suffrage than for option.

It is now up to the voters of California to consider suffrage while local option tries to get to them through a "progressive" Senate that seems to be reluctant to say the least.

This reluctance is being met by the "Little Big Stick." That this innovation was present was discovered yesterday when Lieut. Wallace was found working for the option measure. If Gov. "H" has a "Big Stick" the whole Legislature, Wallace ought to have a "Little Big Stick" for the Senators.

LIQUOR LINE-UP.

The indications are that Wallace may have to cast the deciding vote on option. There is no doubt that he will do so gladly. In fact, the liquor interests fear it will be so. At this time liquor cannot count upon the support of more than twenty Senators. It is admitted that nine Senators from San Francisco and the nine Democrats are for the liquor element. With them stand Senator Hurd of Los Angeles. But either of the nine is less than unanimous with Hurd. There are said to be two Democrats and two San Francisco members who will not follow the lead of Finn and Sanford.

Woman suffrage in the bill constitutional amendment, already passed by the Senate, preceded local option in the Assembly by two hours in its victory.

It was accompanied by much speech-making. Breckett of San Luis Obispo read a long, typewritten speech to his list well, but desisted before he had reached the twentieth page. In the afternoon sympathy led the Assembly to vote to print the whole speech in the Journal. The opposition to suffrage came from Schmidt and McDonald of San Francisco and March of Sacramento. But it was without effect. As the majority was merely patient with the speaker.

Coghlan of San Francisco closed the debate with a fiery speech for suffrage. Mrs. "overweight" from Los Angeles.

WOMAN OVERCOME.

The roll call was a climax for the suffrage lobby that it bore with womanly fortitude. When the fifty-fourth vote was cast, the one making the two-thirds necessary, Mrs. Maud Rogers of San Francisco, heiress, collapsed from excitement.

Next: Bliss, Chandler, Cunningham, Devere, Flint, Lynch, March, McDonald, Nelson, Rimlinger, Rodgers of San Francisco; Schmidt, Young.

Absent: Hewitt, Rutherford—2.

Mrs. Charles Farwell Edson and Mrs. Edson Harris. Coffin clapped their hands gleefully. After the vote they went on the floor to congratulate the members.

The vote was 66 to 12. Mrs. Edson and Mr. Coffin had a busy time. The twelve who did not vote right got some smiles of pity.

Next step on the suffrage program is the organization of active work in every county of the State to support the amendment when it is brought up at the special election in the spring or summer, according to the Chamber-Johnson programme.

LEISLATORS SPOUT.

Local option also won after an uneventful debate. A final attempt was made by Senator of Santa Rosa, Coghlan of San Francisco, and others, to amend the bill by changing the county of San Francisco.

TO PRESENT MEASURE PROVIDING FOR GRAND ARMY ENCAMPMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An appropriation of $100,000 to be used by the Government for the Grand Army encampment in this State was provided for in a bill to be introduced tomorrow by Senator Coghlan.

It is intended that this shall be the first session of the State to the Forty-third National Encampment of the G. A. R., which Los Angeles hopes to have. The bill is a duplicate of the State constitution in 1896 and 1897 to G. A. R. encampment at San Francisco.

The bill was brought here today on the floor of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce by Mr. H. Z. Osborn. He brought a bill authorizing the State to acquire by purchase, condemnation or gift, a site at the county seat for such memorial hall. It is made obligatory that the general care of the hall shall be at the expense of the county and that a flag pole shall be erected on the site.

The bill is to be primarily for the use of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Loyal Legion, United Spanish War Veterans, Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, and all societies composed of descendants of those who served in the War of the Revolution and all kindred or allied patriotic organizations. While the bill is intended especially for the display of memorials and relics, sculpture and tablets.

The memorial hall is to be governed by a board of five, two from the G. A. R., one from the Loyal Legion, one from the Spanish War Veterans, and one from the Women's Relief Corps.

amend the bill by changing the county unit to a township unit. Assembly members showed that the obvious purpose of this was to nullify the law, as a township vote is an impossibility in many judicial townships because precinct lines disregard township lines and no accurate electorate may be determined. Chandler, Butler and McGowan defended the bill. Its principal explanation was made by Wyllie of Dinuba, its author who wrote a long statement. Not a word of any speech changed a vote. The majority was intact on all points.

Slater's amendment was killed by a vote of 44 to 32, all of Los Angeles being against it except Lyon. The roll on the main question showed 54 for option and only 20 against.

Coghlan then returned to his sphere and changed his vote from no to aye and gave notice that he will move a reconsideration of the vote on both the amendment and main question. His course will serve only to delay the progress of the measure to the Senate which is the real battle ground.

OPPOSE CESSION OF TIDE LANDS.

CAMINETTI STARTS FIGHT ON SENATE MEASURES.

Insists Provision Must Be Made for Title to Revert to State if Municipalities Cease to Carry Out Public Trust—City Consolidation Bill Also to Be Fought.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bills for the cession of State tide lands to Los Angeles and Oakland met opposition in the Senate today from Caminetti on the ground that the State must not cede harbors to municipalities, especially without providing for the reversion to the State whenever a city ceases to carry out the public trust of the State-municipal control. Senator Hewitt explained that the Los Angeles bill does provide for reversion of title ipso facto, whenever the lands are not conserved for public use. Caminetti's objection met no such defense from Oakland. All the bills were referred to the Judiciary Committee for adjustment. His opposition was indorsed by Wright, Curtin, Wolfe and Larkin.

Caminetti is following his theory of other sessions that the State must not cede its harbors to municipalities. It is the policy with reference to San Francisco. Of course San Francisco will get behind Caminetti's opposition with its twenty-seven votes to prevent the competition of other municipalities. Los Angeles, Monterey and other harbors are ready to make improvements out of municipal resources without other aid than that of land or privilege to defeat corporate aggression, and this means a competitive system between city and State. But even with San Francisco defending its State harbor there is every reason to believe that the Hewitt bill will not meet Caminetti's serious opposition. Nor will the other measures if they are made consistent with Hewitt's.

The Judiciary Committee is also trying to work out a city and county consolidation law that will meet the necessities of both San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The Wolfe bill was attacked by Senators Thompson and Gates of Los Angeles on the ground that Los Angeles may, under the bill, be divided into a number of small towns as a city and county and leave the rest of the Los Angeles county to take care of itself.

Hewitt denied this and the committee has placed the reconstruction of the constitutional amendment in the hands of Wolfe, Hewitt, Thompson, Tieton and Cartwright. As it stands, Cartwright is the champion of the bill between the San Francisco and Oakland and Los Angeles interests.

SPOTTED FEVER EPIDEMIC.

Entire Mississippi Town Is Vacated by Citizens After Twenty-one Deaths Follow Deadly Disease.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LUCEDALE (Miss), Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the business leaving on every train the residents are leaving the woods in wagons, because of the epidemic of cerebro spinal, or spotted fever, which has developed here within the past few days.

One week ago the first case was reported. Nine deaths followed in quick succession in the outskirts of the town, but yesterday the disease appeared in the principal residence district, and by tonight twelve more deaths were reported. United Shipman, towns at the north, and established quarantine.

The disease has taken a chill. A high fever follows. Then a rash appears, and finally blue spots all over the body. Death occurs within twelve to twenty-four hours. No recoveries have been known so far. The spine is affected as in meningitis.

The communicability and fatal nature of the disease are shown by the fact that one aged woman caught it by kissing her grand-daughter's corpse. She died within the day.

Only white residents have been affected so far. The negroes seem to be immune.

HEALTH WRECKED BY THE GRIP

Its Attack Generally Leaves the Patient Debilitated and an Easy Prey to Other Diseases.

One of our foremost medical writers says: "It is astonishing, the number of people who have been crippled in health for years after an attack of the grip."

The real danger from the grip is during convalescence, when the characteristic symptoms, the fever, the cough, the headache and the depression of spirits pass away. The grip leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion and over-sensitive nerves—a condition that makes the system an easy prey to pneumonia, bronchitis, rheumatism, nervous prostration and even consumption.

It is a condition that calls emphatically for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic especially adapted to the needs as they purify and enrich the blood. They tone up the nerves and give vigor, strength and health to the debilitated system.

The cure of Mrs. A. L. Beckwith, of No. 744 Santos street, Los Angeles, Cal., proves the value of this tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"I am glad of this opportunity to tell what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for me. I was living at the time in San Francisco and was afflicted with a severe case of the grip. I had all the disagreeable symptoms of the disease, chills, fever and headache. I was confined to bed for several days. After the attack had passed, I remained weak and without ambition. I didn't care whether I lived or not. I was always tired out. I did everything I could think of, but I did not get any better until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took but a few boxes of the pills and was cured. Since then I have been in such good health that I haven't needed medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are guaranteed by the manufacturers to contain no opiate, narcotic or anything that could injure the delicate system.

All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Send for free booklet describing the tonic treatment.

EARTHQUAKE IN MANILA.

Prolonged Shock Rouses Inhabitants. Latest Estimates Give Number of Dead From Volcano as Six Hundred.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, Feb. 2.—A prolonged earthquake roused the residents of Manila tonight.

Revised estimates place the number of those killed by the eruptions of Mount Taal and drowned in the tidal waves, at 600. These include many in the two hamlets which are being excavated on the north shore of Taal island. Sixty-two bodies were buried today.

RELIEF FOR PHILIPPINES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—To meet conditions of suffering in the Philippines incident to the eruption of Mount Taal volcano, the American National Red Cross Society in Washington has cabled $1000 to Governor General Foxworth of Manila.

The Governor reports, however, that unless adequate means are employed there will be much suffering, as mud and lava have destroyed the crops of thousands of families.

Col. W. C. Rivers, of the army, and assistant chief of the Philippine constabulary, has been placed in charge of all relief work. He has divided the affected territory into districts.

GIRL'S MATRIMONIAL PLUNGES.

Young Tacoma Maiden Weds, Divorces, Falls in Love, Weds Again in Space of Twenty Months.

TACOMA (Wash.), Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Love at first sight when they met a few weeks ago resulted in the marriage yesterday of Hazel K. Cornell, daughter of Daniel Cornell, president of the Tacoma Commercial Club and Walter F. Higbee, a Chicago musician and nephew of Judge Chapman, a Tacoma Superior Court Judge.

The bride was married twenty months ago to Bruce Potter Smith, a young musician, but he left her and started divorce proceedings all within three months after their wedding. This caused a sensation, because of the prominence of Miss Cornell's family and the fact that the real cause of the trouble between them was never made public.

Higbee is reported to be the young man for whom a Seattle southeaster failed a suicide attempt and taking to his heels after the shooting of a woman. She drank opium salts, sending him word she had taken poison and was dying. Higbee did not return her affection.

Higbee possesses a wonderful baritone voice and has been engaged by the exclusive Saint Cecilia Club as soloist for its annual concert in the month. The bride is a graduate of Annie Wright Seminary and finished her education in Europe. The young couple decided on a quiet wedding and were married in Seattle.

EXPLAIN REASONS.

The majority decision of Eshleman and Gordon follows:

"We do not believe under all the circumstances in this case a rehearing should be granted. This necessarily carries with it a refusal to suspend the effective date of the going into effect of the order of the commission heretofore made.

"Our reason for this conclusion is briefly stated as follows: The commission believes that the conclusion is warranted by the facts that the rate of traffic from Los Angeles to San Joaquin Valley points, that there has been no reduction in the rates, further, that the cost of fuel during this same period has been greatly reduced. In the conclusion that the reduction in rates is warranted by the facts, the commission is supported at least in part by the minority opinion of Commissioner Loveland, heretofore rendered. We believe also that this conclusion is borne out by the expert testimony of William R. Wheeler, the so-called Reno case, who testified that in his opinion a rate over the Sierra Nevada, considerably less than the rate over the Tehachas, was a reasonable rate, even though the cost of fuel over the Sierra Nevada is, we believe, admittedly greater than the cost of the same service over the Tehachas. The fact that the Sierra Nevada haul was concerned with interstate traffic does not, in our

SAN JOAQUIN RATES.

tion that the rates granted by the order are unreasonable is the sentiment expressed in the concurring opinion of Eshleman and Gordon. The commissioners justify themselves by drawing out the famous "mimeograph tariffs" which the railroads filed with the commission in 1907 and subsequently withdrew. The rates which became effective February 15, are practically the same as those in the "mimeograph tariffs," and the commissioners claim that as the railroads originated them the company officials are estopped from questioning the reasonableness of the rates.

PROPOSED NEW LAW.

The two concurring commissioners suggest that "if San Francisco feels aggrieved" she should file a complaint or bring the matter to the attention of the commission, if the new law (Bohnert Assembly act No. 463) goes into effect.

This act, in the Senate being Senator 223, Commissioner Gordon claimed this afternoon will place all rates in the State in a place where they can be attacked. By this measure railroad companies will be required to file schedules of all interstate rates and the commission will be required, upon complaint to scrutinize them.

The railroads have sixty days to file the schedules after the law becomes effective and the commission has sixty days to report on the schedules.

Loveland dissents from the opinion of Eshleman and Gordon and believed that the case should be reopened and the effective date of the order suspended, for the reasons set forth in his dissenting opinion of December 24, when the case was heard by the former commission.

Another opinion, which might be termed an addenda of the decision, is written and signed by all three commissioners. By it Commissioner Loveland makes the majority decision unanimous. This part of the document takes newspapers and "illuminated" to task for using undue activity to "influence the decision of the commission." It was apparently written by the commissioners to quiet any criticism of that body in its deliberations.

ADDENDUM OPINION.

The addendum opinion, signed by all three commissioners, is as follows:

"While we have been unable to agree unanimously upon an opinion on the pending matter, yet we feel it incumbent upon us at this time to express our sentiments with regard to the attitude of certain interested newspaper and otherwise, concerning the work of the railroad commission of this State.

"We certainly invite just criticism at all times, but we would call the attention of litigants and newspapers alike to the fact that their repeated suggestion that the locality from which the commission's decision will determine its attitude on any particular question is unjust and an expression of lack of care in the commission and a contempt of the commission."

"We believe that Los Angeles has established her right to the reduction granted by the commission and has sustained her first cause of action. We base this conclusion upon the showing that for nearly ten years, although rates over the Tehachas have increased in volume of traffic from Los Angeles to San Joaquin Valley points, that there has been no reduction in the rates, further, that the cost of fuel during this same period has been greatly reduced. In the conclusion that the reduction in rates is warranted by the facts, the commission is supported at least in part by the minority opinion of Commissioner Loveland, heretofore rendered. We believe also that this conclusion is borne out by the expert testimony of William R. Wheeler, the so-called Reno case, who testified that in his opinion a rate over the Sierra Nevada, considerably less than the rate over the Tehachas, was a reasonable rate, even though the cost of fuel over the Sierra Nevada is, we believe, admittedly greater than the cost of the same service over the Tehachas. The fact that the Sierra Nevada haul was concerned with interstate traffic does not, in our opinion, affect the reasonableness of the rate. The only element in interstate rates which ordinarily makes them lower per ton per mile than intrastate is the element of distance.

OFFICIALS ESTOPPED.

"We think the officials of the two roads defendant herein are estopped from questioning the reasonableness of the rates from Los Angeles ordered by them in 1907 of the so-called 'mimeograph tariffs.' We are not strongly impressed with the suggestions that these rates were withdrawn because of objections from the legal department of the carriers. Even though the legal department of the roads may justify themselves in interfering with the traffic officials, yet we are constrained to the belief that the traffic officials, after all, are the better judges, and that the opinion of the legal department would properly address itself to the question as to whether or not rates could be charged and collected and not to their reasonableness.

"We do not express any opinion as to the reasonableness of the rates from San Francisco South into Los Angeles and San Joaquin valley, and we would respectfully suggest that if San Francisco or any other city feels aggrieved that such city file a complaint setting forth its cause of grievance or bring the matter to the attention of the commission after the new law has gone into effect. If it shall be passed, when the commission will be required under the proposed statute to scrutinize all rates that are in effect at the time the law goes into effect or which become effective by any order of the commission made before the law is enacted.

Granting for the sake of argument, that San Francisco's contention that the decision of the commission heretofore made works an injustice upon her by reason of its discriminatory features, yet we find ourselves in the dilemma where we are either required to continue an injustice upon San Francisco which was inflicted by the order of the commission before the commissioners signing this opinion took office or to throw back upon Los Angeles rates which are proved and admittedly too high. Under the circumstances, we feel that even though we should grant the contention of San Francisco as correct, yet our only consistent attitude is to preserve the present status."

EMPIRE INTERESTED.

The court granted the motion and the formal question of the indictment was again read. Once more the aged physician replied that he was guilty of Bouturlin's death.

His examination was then continued. Asked whether he had administered

AGED RUSSIAN DOCTOR ACCUSED OF STARTING CHOLERA EPIDEMIC.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

S. T. PETERSBURG, Feb. 2.—There was an unusual occurrence at today's session of the trial for murder of Count O'Brien de Lassy, when the notorious prisoner, Dr. Pantchenko, was called on to plead a second time. He pleaded guilty as before.

The Count is accused of having employed the doctor to murder his brother-in-law, Count Vassili Bouturlin, the heir to estates of an estimated value of $2,500,000 in order that the property might be inherited by Countess de Lassy.

Pantchenko confessed his guilt, but set up the defense that he committed the crime while under the hypnotic influence of the Count. As the trial progressed, he wavered in matters of detail and his lawyers were quick to strengthen his original defense, by declaring their client was still under the influence of the Count to such an extent that he was little by little contracting the vital points of his composition.

Today the public prosecutor took cognizance of the situation, and after referring to the proximity of the prisoners in the dock, made a motion for the cardinal question of his guilt or innocence be proposed again to Pantchenko. He said the replies of the prisoner had been unsatisfactory throughout the examination.

The court granted the motion and the formal question of the indictment was again read. Once more the aged physician replied that he was guilty of Bouturlin's death.

His examination was then continued. Asked whether he had administered poison to his victim, Pantchenko murmured, saying he would answer the question after the report of the medical experts who had made the post-mortem had been presented in court.

The whole empire is interested in the case because of the wholesale confession made by Pantchenko. Every mysterious death in recent years is recalled, and there are rumors that the poisoner may have been engaged to cause the death of members of the royal family. He has admitted that he made a business of killing for hire, his rivals in love, insistent creditors and in fact any undesirable persons whose enemy was prepared to pay liberally for their sudden taking off.

The poison doctor, according to the police, has admitted forty deaths, his victims running as high as $250,000 a single assassination. His method was to inoculate the patient with cholera or other bacilli after he had been called to the bedside in his professional capacity. He is now credited by some with having originated the cholera epidemic of a few years ago. The doctor is 70 years old, and appears to have had some standing in society, despite his dual profession. Count de Lassy is a young man of Irish descent. The woman in the trial, Mrs. Muraviev, with whom Pantchenko lodged and to whom he says he turned over his earnings. She figures in the trial as an alleged accomplice. De Lassy is a cousin of Countess Tarnowska, who is serving a prison term in Italy for complicity in the murder of her fiance, Count Komarowski.

Count Bouturlin was 26 years old, the son of Gen. Bouturlin, whose family is of old wealth. Pantchenko says that in the case of the killing of Bouturlin he used diphtheria bacilli.

REVOLUTIONISTS IN HONDURAS SEEM TO TRAVEL CLEAR PATH.

He is expected to arrive here tonight. The revolutionary leader comes to take over the city from the international forces. The revolutionists will receive a cordial welcome.

Prior to the departure of Gen. Christmas, four sloops loaded with revolutionists under Gen. Leva had already left Celba.

Government troops are mobilizing between Puerto Cortes and Pima. The Tatumilla, the Honduran government "navy," has been ordered into the quays at Savadilla to be dismantled.

better than we had anticipated," said E. G. Kuster of the firm of Kuster, Loeb & Loeb, attorneys for the Associated Jobbers of Los Angeles.

"We were under the impression of having to argue the handicap of having two members of the board who were new and had not heard the evidence. We were satisfied to base our attitude on the previous decision and the verdict in our behalf is doubly satisfactory for the decision made and the verdict is a most satisfactory ending to a long and arduous campaign to remove an injustice and to place the shippers and jobbers of Los Angeles on a parity with the business interests of San Francisco and Stockton."

Mr. Kuster returned from San Francisco last night.

ARCHITECTS HONOR GUESTS.

Complimentary Dinner Served for Visiting Officers and Members of the American Institute.

The Los Angeles Chapter of the American Institute of Architects held a complimentary dinner last night at the Hoffman Cafe for Irving K. Pond of Chicago, and Glenn Brown of Washington, president and secretary, respectively, of the national organization, together with William James of St. Louis. They have been visitors in Los Angeles since the annual convention of the institute in San Francisco two weeks ago.

Forty-three local architects did the honors of the occasion, which was comfortably informal. Following the dinner, the business of the chapter was carried out, with Frank D. Hudson as president and Fernand Parmentier as secretary.

The Barnett Tenement House act came in for a great deal of discussion. The result of which was the adoption of a resolution advising the repeal of the law and the placing of the control of building operations in the hands of the different municipalities of the State. This resolution will be presented to the Legislature by Lyman Parwell, of the architectural firm of Dennis & Furber, who is a member of the Legislature from this city.

A vote of thanks was extended to A. P. Rosenheim for the part he played in making the visit of the delegates to the San Francisco convention, who came to this city to inspect the recent architectural exhibit, a success. The members of the entertainment committee also came in for praise.

The speaking of the evening was introduced by Thomas Morran of San Francisco, who read a paper on "Heating and Ventilation." Morran was followed by Pond, Brown and James in comments, speeches. Several of the local designers were also called upon.

The guests of the dinner were warm in their praise of the splendid exhibit of the local architects held in the Forrester Building early in the month and in their admiration for local architectural standards.

STAUNCH FRIEND OF "UNCLE JOE."

Visitor Here Business Associate of Cannon.

Speaks of Him as an Idol of Danville People.

Says That His Home Life Is Singularly Clean.

M. E. King, president of the Second National Bank of Danville, Ill., and thirty years a close personal friend and business partner of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, arrived at the Hollywood Hotel yesterday, accompanied by his son, A. M. King.

"I have known Mr. Cannon thirty years and have been in close personal and business touch with him for that period, and I have yet to meet the man who is more thoroughly honest and warm-hearted," said King last night. "Mr. Cannon is so popular in his home city that there has never been a question of his re-election since his first candidacy. He has always had a safe majority of between 6000 and 7000."

"The reports which are now coming out of Danville and other points in Illinois concerning bribery charges and vote buying have nothing to do with Mr. Cannon. Personally I know he would never stoop to such a thing nor would he permit any of his personal helpers to do such a thing and also it has never been necessary. So all of the red fire that is being burned

JUROR'S PAY TO CHARITY.

Banker Declines to Accept His Demand, But Leaves It for the Poor.

J. F. Sartori, president of the Security Savings Bank, is a member of the trial jury in Judge Houser's court, and yesterday, when the clerk of that department made out the pay demands, the financier declined to accept his, saying he did not care for the money. When informed that the money would be to his credit unless he accepted the voucher and countersigned it in favor of someone else, Sartori arranged that his pay shall go to the Associated Charities during his entire jury service.

Sartori, speaking of the incident afterward, said he considers it his duty as a citizen and taxpayer to serve on the jury; that he is ready for such service whenever his name is drawn, and he thinks it every citizen's duty to accept such service. It is one of the plainest concomitants of good citizenship, he declared. Sartori's position is so at variance with that of most men of affairs that it attracted a good deal of comment.

HE'S CLEARED, BUT ALARMED.

Man Rushes Up to Justice for Protection.

Declares Angry Woman Has Acid for Attack.

Dramatic End to Troubles of Long Time.

Less than five minutes after he had been dismissed from a charge of having failed to provide for his three children, Morris Kleinberg threw Justice Summerfield's court into a state of disorder yesterday by rushing through it and into the magistrate's chambers, while screaming for protection.

As soon as he could regain his composure enough to talk, he declared that the woman who had caused his arrest, and whom he had denied to be his wife, had attempted to sprinkle him with acid as he started away from the tribunal.

Two deputy constables were assigned by the magistrate to escort him to his home and ward off any attack which might be made upon him.

The dramatic scene came as a fitting ending to the troubles of Kleinberg and the woman. During the past three months they have been concerned in many little occurrences which had required the attention of the officials. Many of these incidents have been laughable and some of them have been sad.

BOUGHT NEARLY TEN YEARS.

The woman came to this city for the sole purpose of confronting Kleinberg and compelling him to pay for the support of her children. She located him after a search of nearly ten years. According to her story, they were married on the East Side of New York and lived happily enough until a better looking woman then she moved into the block. The newcomer and Kleinberg disappeared the same date.

She brought with her her three children and took them with her when she went to call on Kleinberg at his shop on West Seventh street. He refused to recognize her.

She was desperate, declaring that she was so crippled by rheumatism that she could work no longer. She decided to raise a disturbance, in order that she might get arrested and thus bring the attention of the police or authorities to the circumstances of herself and family. She was disappointed in this for when she went again to the shop, the manager, instead of breaking up things, a patrolman merely took her by the arm and led her away.

She procured a warrant for his arrest and he was taken in custody. She related her story to Justice Summerfield and Deputy Dist. Atty. Shannon offered the three children as exhibits in the case. The court was asked to view them to see if they did not look like the defendant, who disowned them. "His Honor" was willing to view the exhibits, but thought it was unnecessary to file them away with the other bits of evidence.

Kleinberg insisted that he had never married the woman and declared that he had known her only as a boarder when he was a resident of the eastern metropolis. His brother came all the way from New York to testify that there had never been a marriage ceremony.

DOESN'T PROVE CEREMONY.

Mrs. Kleinberg was called upon to produce her certificate of marriage, but she said she never had possessed one. She said that witnesses could be found in the East who had been present at the ceremony. The State did not care to go to the expense of looking them up and the justice released the defendant.

The court turned to a civil case and the parties in the criminal action fled out of the room. The magistrate had almost forgotten the domestic tragedy which he had listened patiently to a few minutes before, having turned his whole attention to the new hearing, when Kleinberg appeared.

Fear was expressed on the State's part that he had been tampered with by the woman and he nearly broke down the door in his haste to get it open. He refused to leave the magistrate's chambers, where he could hide behind a large desk, unless he were escorted by officers. He declared that previously the woman had sought to hit him with a bottle.

Witnesses say the woman drew something out of her bosom as Kleinberg passed her yesterday, and that she gazed at it as though it were glass. She made a motion toward him with her hand, but she did not divulge her intention to anyone.

FOR THE HARBOR RAILWAY.

Federated Improvement Association Goes on Record in Favor of the Municipal Proposition.

The Federated Improvement Association went on record last night as favoring a municipal railway between Los Angeles and the harbor. Resolutions endorsing the plan were presented by a committee of which Louis Hansen was chairman and E. Opp secretary. The resolutions state that the Federation believes there is no other way by which the city may be brought into close relations with the great commerce that is sure to come through this magnificent harbor.

A committee composed of J. H. Call, Dr. H. Hill and L. A. Phillips was appointed to ascertain why the harbor bond decision has never been handed down. Chairman Curran announced that he had been informed that not even the briefs in this case had been filed. The Federation members expressed impatience at the delay and went steps taken to bring the project to a point.

WIFE NEEDS HIM.

INJURED BOARDING CAR.

While attempting to board a moving Colgrove car on Hill street about 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning, Julius O'burg, 27 years old, fell under the wheels. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where Police Surgeon Carter amputated three fingers and a portion of the palm. O'burg is a laborer at the police

DR. GRAVES FALLS SUDDENLY.

Bank Vice-President Suffers Attack of Heart Failure at Gun Club and Head Is Cut as He Drops.

Dr. W. L. Graves, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank, suffered a severe attack of heart failure late Wednesday afternoon at the Ceritos Gun Club, following a day's shooting. While walking to his cottage his muscles suddenly became rigid, he turned black in the face, and pitched forward to the ground with such force that his head was severely cut. Medical attention was summoned from Long Beach, and late in the evening Dr. Graves had recovered sufficiently to return home.

Last night, Dr. Graves, who is over 70 years of age, was reported so greatly improved in condition that he will soon be in his office.

Big Bump.

CARS CRASH ON OPEN SWITCH.

MAIN STREET COACHES COME TOGETHER HARD.

Seven Hurt in Head-on Collision in Front of Pacific Electric Building. Caused by "Split" on Track—Windows, Woodwork, Fenders, Etc., Are Badly Smashed Up.

A "split" switch, open or imperfectly thrown by a car proceeding, was the cause of a head-on collision between two cars in front of the Pacific Electric building, at Sixth and Main streets at 5:30 o'clock last evening. Five men and two women were hurt, none seriously. The glass and woodwork of the front ends of both cars were badly smashed and the street for twenty feet around strewn with broken fragments.

Northbound Main street car No. 539, in charge of Conductor Staff and Motorman Leuthery, was coming to a stop near the Sixth street crossing when car No. 538, in the opposite direction, started across the broad-gauge switch leading into the Pacific Electric building at that point. Motorman Bates and Conductor Senter, of the latter car, say that its speed was not above twelve miles an hour, but it was badly smashed and the street for twenty feet around strewn with broken fragments.

The switch was partly open and the southbound car was shunted quartering across the northbound track just in time to collide violently with the other coach. The fenders and steps of both were torn off, the woodwork considerably broken and the southbound car thrown entirely off the track.

There were fifty passengers on it and all of them were heavily jolted over the rough ride. Mrs. J. Gardner, No. 249 East Lake street, was thrown to the floor and badly shaken up. She fainted from fright, but, after being revived, was able to proceed to her home. J. C. Blake, No. 2500 South Hope street, was cut on the face and on the back of one hand by the glass that filled the air.

William Short, a cart driver of No. 245 West Fifty-ninth place, was hurled from his seat and, in falling, was bruised about the legs and feet. Andrew Olivera, an insurance agent for the National Casualty Company, residing at No. 132 West Forty-second street, was pinned against the front of the car, which he was occupying. His injuries consisted chiefly of bruises about the legs and body. He and Short were given treatment at the Receiving Hospital.

HOUSE ENTERED.

A. J. M. Oswald, No. 4508 South Main street, reported to the police yesterday that his home had been entered Wednesday afternoon and a watch, some jewelry and $25 in cash stolen.

WILD UP; BEATEN.

C. Rofino, 54 years old, about 5:30 yesterday morning was slightly injured by highwaymen. They held him up and beat him with their fists while he was walking on North Main street.

JUST WILLING FOR A SCHOOL.

Committee of a Hundred Wants University.

Represents Federation of Improvement Bodies.

Would Take "Tech" on a Silver Platter.

"Resolved, That the Committee of 100, representing the Federated Improvement Clubs, stand for a State university for Southern California, first, last and all the time."

This resolution expressed the sentiments of a three-hour session of storm held by the committee at the Alexandria Hotel yesterday afternoon and attended by members of the Federation of the Teachers' Association, who are not members of the committee.

After discussing everything from the character of County School Superintendent Keppel to a division of the State, the meeting simmered down to the point where it knew itself in favor of a State university and where those present were willing to take a school of Technology as a free gift, provided it would in no wise interfere with the university plan.

Everybody present was so sure that Superintendent Keppel had done nothing to call forth censure and everybody so loudly insisted that Superintendent Keppel had not been censured that it was finally agreed that his name should be eliminated from any resolutions passed so that, although they talked about him all afternoon, they never voted upon him at all, and after three hours actually succeeded in voting on the subject of the meeting.

JUST WILLING.

At the very tail end of the meeting, after half of those in attendance had gone and the other half were worried down to where they did not care, H. S. McCullum said that he knew that the motion was inconsistent and that it would be out of order if anybody asked the chairman to rule it so that as a compliment to Superintendent Keppel and the friends of Los Angeles in the Legislature he moved that the plan to secure a technical school for Los Angeles at this time be indorsed.

This motion was carried in a half-hearted manner, thereby placing the committee on record as being willing to accept a school of technology as a silver platter, but as clearly unwilling to make any further effort to get it than to say "thank you."

From the moment that Garret Curran called the meeting to order, and Hon. N. B. Blackstock was placed in the chair, there was something stirring on the floor. J. E. Wickham, secretary of the committee's Finance Committee, arose in defense of Superintendent Keppel, explaining why the committee could not be more forthcoming in its support of the school, its twenty-two acres and its buildings at Pasadena, to the State and this plan Keppel and his supporters from Los Angeles county had indorsed.

REASON COMES OUT.

There was reason good and plenty why Superintendent Keppel could not obtain the support of the Los Angeles county members of the Legislature for a university for Southern California and H. S. McCullum brought it out with a wallow when he arose and demanded that Wickham read a letter he had received from Keppel, written by the latter while on his way of business chances, and almost every conceivable thing that can be bought, sold, rented, exchanged or wanted, are advertised from day to day in The Times "Liner" section. These advertisements are readable and interesting, and offer many opportunities for personal profit and advancement.

Month after month, year in and year out, The Times prints more advertising than any other paper in the world.

The following figures tell the story:

For the week ending Sunday, January 29, The Times printed 2068 more "Liners" than the aggregate of all other Los Angeles newspapers combined, and 6579 more than its nearest local competitor.

The total number of "Liners" published by The Times for the seven days from January 23 to 29, inclusive, was 13,796. The prize of Five Dollars in Gold has been awarded to Mrs. C. A. Daniels, No. 543 West Thirty-seventh Place, city, whose estimate of 13,796 "Liners" was the first and only correct answer received in last week's contest.

FIVE DOLLARS IN GOLD GIVEN AWAY

One week ago today The Times printed 1411 "Liners." On the same day its nearest local competitor printed only 777 "Liners."

On Tuesday, February 7, and on each Tuesday thereafter, a prize of Five Dollars in gold will be awarded to the person making the first nearest correct estimate of the total number of "Liner" advertisements published in The Times during the seven days from Monday, January 30, until Sunday, February 5, inclusive.

Estimates should not be made until after the publication of The Times on the last day of the week for which the contest is held, and they must be delivered before 10 a.m. the following Tuesday. The name of the prize winner for the preceding week will be published every Wednesday. This contest is not open to employees of the Times-Mirror Company, and this company's advertisements should not be counted.

All letters should be addressed to the Contest Editor, and each will be numbered in the order of its receipt in the office, 531-535 South Spring street.

WORTH DISCUSSING.
Clergymen are discussing the location of hades—certainly a pertinent theme. It is more important than the location of the North Pole. No one ever expects to go to the North Pole.

"IN" AND "OF."
There has been quite a run on the supply of peroxide in the local drug stores since the declaration of a lecturer the other night that men in all ages have always admired blondes. Of all ages?

FAR APART.
Senator DuPont has been re-elected in Delaware. He is a nice old gentleman who makes powder for a living, not the sort the ladies put on their faces, but the kind they use in war. However, from Bayard and John M. Clayton to DuPont is more than a day's journey.

TO BE EXPECTED.
In a local police court three Hindops were made to remove their sacred turbans and reveal their sacred locks to an unholo audience. Why boast of liberty in a land which robs the beathen of his comfort? Nothing more was to be expected, however, of a country whose ungalant men demand that a woman remove her fine feet of the star hat in order that the man behind may see the show.

DARING SOCIETY GIRL.
We see by the papers that Miss Virginia Brooks, a society girl of West Hammond, Ill., has entered politics for the purpose of opposing a proposed new city charter in her town. Bridge whist, week-end dances and all that sort of thing seem to have palled on society girls, and they are now going in for politics. We don't see the sense of it, but what's the use of trying to stop them?

NEVER AT PEACE.
The trouble with these new fads in politics, such as the initiative, the referendum and the recall, is that they keep the people in a state of expensive unrest. Instead of proving a blessing, these fads are certain to prove a curse. The basic principles of government are simple and not many. What should be done is to get down to these principles and go ahead on them so that the people may have an opportunity to attend to their own personal and private concerns.

THERE IS NO MIND.
Whenever Colorado politicians cut a megal, so far as the women are concerned there never is any mind. Once in a while one of them is made superintendent of public instruction, or placed upon a charity board where she will be harmless, but woman's career as an office-holder is naturally limited. A woman has now been put forward for United States Senator from Colorado, but even the four women members of the Legislature have refused to vote for her.

MONTEREY IN 1913.
Speaking of fairs and expositions, we direct the attention of our well-loved and historic sister city of Monterey to the fact that she is in a position to put something across in the year 1913 by a fitting celebration of the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Junipero Serra, who was for a matter of fifteen years the most distinguished citizen, not only of Monterey, but of all California. The same is a name to conjure with, and upon the occasion mentioned, Monterey ought to be able to pull off something in the way of pageantry that would attract the attention of the whole civilized world.

GAME HUNT DE LUXE.
Now another mighty hunter is to penetrate the darkened recesses of still darker continents in search of sensation. Paul K. Rainey, says a dispatch, is to spend a quarter of a million of dollars in an expedition after wild game. It is but another manifestation of a growing ambition on the part of the idle rich to seek new fields of sensation. How pitiable!

Suppose, for example, that instead of slaughtering God's creatures in their native haunts these predatory youths would devote an equal sum to the suppression of the plague in China. When Russia was in the throes of a famine William C. Edgar, a Minneapolis philanthropist, though not a rich man, conceived the idea of sending to the starving of Russia a shipload of flour. He devoted his splendid talents and his best energies in crystallizing his ideas, and as a result there went out across the waters such a benefaction as the world never before knew.

Suppose the modern Nimrod should be-think himself and gather together a group of scientific men and with efficient laboratories and assistants proceed to China to the relief of that plague-stricken nation. True, some one might become a martyr to the cause, but would it not be better to die with the blessing of a nation upon one's efforts, with that sense of peace and security which such an act would bring, than to succumb to African fever or the sleeping sickness, as is likely to be the case if one goes in a quest of game? Hundreds would respond to an appeal for volunteers to aid in the scientific and philanthropic work in China, and they would be God's chosen people who, were they called to suffer death, the lines of the immortal Robert Louis: "Glad did I live and gladly die, and I lay me down with a will."

THEY DON'T PLAY ON IT.
The Times takes the liberty of making a kindly suggestion to large numbers of the vast and very welcome hosts of tourists now within the sunny and rose-wreathed gateways of Los Angeles. The suggestion is—and it is indeed made from an eager heart—that the tourists who are spending their days in the lobbies of our hotels, instead of striking out for the hilltops, the emerald vales and the white shores of the sea, are missing really the best we have to give them and are not getting what they should have come for. We know how easy and elegant and restful the hotels of Los Angeles are, but nothing could possibly compare with a day in the open, the breath of the sun-saturated and vitalizing air and the vistas of glory that open up to the entranced vision of the eye during these days of the springtime in California of the South.

We have a man here who made the remark that there are a great many people in Southern California who "don't know how to play on it." That's the point. When the man from the outlands who has escaped from the snow and blizzards and inhospitable climate of the place where he lives and does business most of the time, comes here and finds Southern California in his hands, the first thing he ought to do is to learn to play on it. And he can't learn to play on it sitting around the lobby of his hotel. He must go out where the gentle winds from the Sunset Sea and the winds from the Mother Mountains, quite as gentle, have tangled themselves in the strings of the golden harp of the sun or as they touch the lute of the stars.

Health of body, gladness of heart and peace of the soul await here whomever shall come. Rise with the mellow lark and listen to the music of the golden trumpets of the morning. Stray far afield while the day lasts, and, as you come back to your hotel at night, carry with you the melody of the mocking bird's evening song. Let it not be said of you that you came to California of the South, spending your time and golden simoleons, and that you went away without having "learned to play on it."

INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM.
To adopt the initiative, the referendum and the recall would be to abolish representative government and substitute a government of pure democracy, such as existed in ancient Athens when the people assembled in mass meeting and enacted the laws. Such a form of government was possible in isolated communities like that of Greece, two thousand years ago, and it was possible locally in New England in the form of government by town meetings, where each small community could provide for its local wants in the way of local legislation, but it is as totally unadapted to the government of a State containing two and one-half millions of people whose boundaries contain 158,000 square miles—the largest State in the Union next to Texas.

The initiative may be invoked by a small percentage of the voters signing a petition for a proposed law which must then, at the cost of a general election, be submitted to a popular vote, and if a majority of the voters approve the measure it will become a law. There can be no amendment of the proposed measure. However crude, however unconstitutional, however unwise it may be, it must be adopted or rejected just as it was framed. If, for instance, the requisite percentage of voters should sign a petition for the passage of a law to inflict double or treble taxation on property owned by corporations, or on property in any one ownership of a greater value than $5000; or to fix transportation rates at half a cent a mile, or to tax merchants 5 per cent on their annual sales, or to punish non-payment of taxes with imprisonment, as was done at one time in Hawaii, or to make it a misdemeanor for men to wear plug hats, or for women to wear hobble skirts, or to abolish all laws for the collection of debts, or to pay pensions to all persons over fifty years of age, or to make it a felony for any mechanic to join a trade union, or any freak measure which might originate in the brain of a socialistic crank, then the proposed law, crude as it might be, nonsensical as it might be in purpose, and ungrammatical as it might be in phrase, would have to be submitted to the voters, and if by chance a majority should vote for it, it would be the law, irrevocable except by invoking a referendum upon it.

Or, if the requisite number of voters should fix their names to a petition to refer any law now existing to the people for rejection, it would have to be submitted at great cost, and if the people voted to wipe it from the statutes it would have to go, even if it were a law making the necessary appropriations to carry on the government.

Of course it may be assumed that a majority of the voters would not vote to enact unwise laws or to repeal necessary laws. But it cannot be assumed that there are not cranks enough and criminals enough and fools enough who could be induced by cunning canvassers to sign any petition presented to them, and then the cost of an election would be incurred, and the process could be repeated ad infinitum until the public treasuries should be as bare as a picked bird.

Nor does it appear that the initiative and the referendum would put an end to bossism, corrupt combinations in politics, or grafting. The same illicit methods, the same process of arraying the prejudices and passions of the impetuous many against the thrifty and comparatively solvent few, could be pursued by cunning manipulators that are occasionally pursued now. Recent events in this State have demonstrated how easily people can be humbugged into wrestling power from one set of politicians to place greater power in the possession of politicians more unscrupulous, more grasping and more tyrannical than their predecessors.

Senator Bourne of Oregon indulges in un-justified praise of the bridge that carried him over the gulf of obscurity into the Sen-appear that the initiative, the referendum and the recall have given Oregon cheaper or better government, or wiser laws, or more competent officers.

There does not seem to be any great necessity anywhere for the adoption of these populist fads. If, as may be conceded, a majority of the voters are honest enough and wise enough to frame and repeal laws, they are wise enough and honest enough to elect representatives who can be trusted to do the work for them, and to do it more carefully and effectively than it can be done by a mob. Representative government has been in existence in California for sixty years and it has worked fairly well. Our code of laws is as free from faults as the laws of any State in the Union. Justice is administered as well and as speedily, and the rights of person and property of all men and women are protected as perfectly as they could be by repealing our codes, or portions of them, and supplying their places with such statutes as might be framed by meddlers and experimentalists.

It is probable that the insurgents who are now in power at Sacramento will propose amendments to the State Constitution providing for the initiative, and the referendum and the recall. But it is not in the least probable that their freakism will be endorsed by the sensible voters of the State. The voters will be apt to remember the couplet—
"Be not the last to cast the old aside, Nor yet the first by whom the new is tried."

KINGS WHO NEVER DIE.
Many dynasties have sprung up in a morning, have dazzled millions in their noonday splendor, and have passed away into the night. Nothing left of the Pharaohs but a few ponderous pyramids and some attenuated mummies; Imperial Rome—what remains of it—broken off in chips and carried away in the pockets of vulgar relic hunters. Valois and Bourbon, god-like creatures, peacocking above the nations of Europe, crumpled to by the ducking observants of France, where are they now and of what account their dynasty? See how their sacred and embalm'd remains were fung into the Paris sewers by the ragged-shirts of Robespierre, till the blood of tyrants and martyrs drowned deep the France of old in a crimson pool of anarchy, and gave to the world a regenerated nation where Valois and Bourbon have no voice and no inheritance.

Norman and Plantagenet, what does the world care now for their futile efforts to wrest the tomb of Christ from the unclenchable fist of the Turk? What poet sings the War of the Roses which for fifty years fertilized the fields of old England with the finest peasantry in Christendom, to set a pretender on the throne of the last English King? Or the Blue-beard Tudor, his hands red with the innocent blood of Anne Boleyn; or the melancholy Stuart, ground under the iron heel of the sturdy Protector; where are their dynasties now? What has the world profited from their struggles? And if Hohenzollern, Hapsburg and Guelf too pass away, the world will jog along just the same, perhaps receiving a slighter jolt than would be caused by the death of a Rockefeller or a Pierpont Morgan.

Sic transit gloria mundi! And yet not entirely so; for there are kings the world will never allow to die, dynasties humanity can never afford to dispense with. Old King Coal came into power centuries ago and still maintains a firm grip on our world-wide subjects, in spite of the attacks of his rival the monarch Petroleum and the swift-heeled empire-builder, Electricity the Great. Should his dynasty come to an end, as have the dynasties of Egypt and Rome and France, the earth would tremble and the sun stand at gaze, as it did for the doughty Joshua.

King Potato has just proved again the universality of his sway. Japanese and for the honor but for the profit, in being his standard-bearer. The code of honor waxes and wanes as often as the multi-phased moon, but profit is a pole-star and never varies. Yet this modern crusade for profit means more to the world than the honorable contest between Cour-de-Lion and Saladin, the flower of Knighthood. Coal, cotton, wheat, potato, these are the only kings the people will never rise against and never overthrow.

POLITICS AND STATE UNIVERSITY.
The Times has frequently called attention to the fact that never did California have such a boss-ridden and programmed Legislature as that now in session.

The educators of the Southland came to a full realization of this fact yesterday when they discovered that the political wire-pullers had run foul of the project for a State University for Southern California and had issued an edict that politicians and not educators should decide these matters. Naturally the teachers were not slow to voice their indignation.

Whether we have a great, fully-equipped university here, under the wing of the State, or a polytechnic institution with possibly Throop as a nucleus for it, our educators and no small-board politicians should have weight with the Legislature in the adjudication of this important question.

IN MEMORIAM.
(Twain, Meredith, Tolstoy.)
Ah, Time, thou thief!
When thou shalt place
"Fate" to life's tale and blot the leaf,
Can prayer turn back the page,
Or tears efface
The word that steals from joy and woos to grief.

With earnest eyes,
In cap and bells,
No more shalt thou, our king of jesters,
shine;
None knew so well
How to make folly, wise—
And fun, divine;
Or polst a plain truth in a playful line.

Turn from the couch of pain,
And look no more!
Saxon and Celt—that climax none dare write;
Shall mortal hand profane
Th' unfinished score,
Immortal limned in words of living light?

And thou, grim priest!
Whose fearless pen
Rattled in tyrant ears the bondman's chain;
A light went glimmering when Thy labors ceased,
And rags were rent and purple patched again.

Yet careless time
Breaks but the shell;
Steals but the husk and leaves the grain behind;
Leaves us the deathless spell,
The song sublime,
That all who run may read—who seek may find.

HARRY F. BOWLING.
Undesirable Fame.
A tramp called at the house of a gentleman and said:
"I've walked many miles to see you, sir, because people told me that you were very kind to poor chaps like me."
"Oh, they said so, did they?"
"Yes, sir; that's why I came."
"And you are going back the same way?"
"Yes, sir."
"Then, in that case, will you be good enough to contradict this rumor?"—[California Christian Advocate.]

"Have you any special terms for automobiles?" asked the man in bearskin and goggles.
"Wal, yes," responded the old toll-gate keeper, whose gate had been broken down by speeding machines. "Sometimes I call them dead beats and sometimes I call them blamed rascals. Anything else you want to

ARE WOMEN IMMODEST?

BY CORINNE WILLIAMS.

Are women really more modest than men? I think not.

This is an age when woman asks for criticism, and, that being the case, she must not be offended if she gets it.

Now, one of the most beautiful actions that has ever been invented about woman is that she is innately modest, and knights of the pen are never tired of harping on this virtue when depicting their heroines. As a man of the world, I venture to assert that, except in a few exceptional cases, modesty is one of the last characteristics that can truthfully be attributed to women.

I was sitting in a theater the other night when a lady in front of me professed to be shocked at a costume worn by one of the actresses on the stage.

"A sign of her modesty," you will say. Not a bit of it, for her own evening dress was cut so extremely low that it was a perfect marvel that she did not catch double pneumonia. Her audible criticism of the actress was merely to try and show her neighbors that she was "a cut above" the paid performer.

In my less prosperous days I often used to sit among the "gods" on notable first nights, and it was a veritable education to hear the disparaging remarks made by the men around me on the extremely delicate dresses of the women in the most fashionable parts of the house.

A medical examination is a much more trying ordeal for a male patient than it is for a female; this, in spite of the fact that the doctor is a member of his own sex.

Almost from time immemorial there have been periodic outbursts against objectionable scenes on the stage. Who but woman has been responsible for these? It is true that many men authors have written risky plays; it is true that many male comedians make objectionable jokes on the music-hall stage, but no playgoer will deny that most doubtful proceedings in the theater are due to women and to women alone.

It is no excuse to say that men patronize performances in which women play immodest parts. The very fact that women will thus demean themselves (for the sake of men, if you like) shows that they are innately immodest.

Of course, it will be objected that the economic pinch makes women do what she does. That, in many instances, is no doubt unfortunately true; but my point is that woman bows to such circumstances with far less qualms of conscience than a man would do.

In the realm of literature it is well known that more immodest books are written by women than by men, and authoresses are more outspoken and excuse the lapses of their heroines far more readily than do authors.

The way in which women gloat over unsavory details in divorce cases, the manner in which they discuss marriage scandals among themselves, the delight they take in parading themselves in extraordinarily indiscreet costumes are sufficient proof that my indictment is correct.

What, now, is the reason of all this? One reason that was given to me by a careful student of life was that it is woman's natural ambition to please, and that her delight of displaying herself even though by doing so she should become notorious, is a remnant of savage times, and is, in fact, analogous to a phenomenon to be met with in the animal world.

There is no doubt a great amount of truth in this, but I think that a modern German psychologist hit the nail on the head when he said that "woman is immodest because she is non-moral." She is not actively immoral, but she lacks a moral sense, and therefore does indiscreet things because her soul is insufficiently deep to realize the grave character of her acts.

When women come to understand this they will cultivate modesty as they now cultivate "hobble" skirts and such like monstrosities.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

Wear tired and worn, my spirit leans upon those fiction magazines for such refreshment as I need; I read of many a gory deed, in cowboy camps or city slums, I read of tramps and toughs and bums. These be the "gripping tales" in which the fiction magazines are rich. And when I've read a few I seize some hatchets, bombs and nickers, and run amuck and leave a trail of dead men in my native vale. I like good yarns that take the breath; I'm fond of blood and sudden death, but in the fiction of today, the gentleman who starts to slay is not the kind that I endorse; his work is often crude and coarse. O for the grand old masters we read of in our younger years! They killed so gracefully and well their victims blessed them as they fell! O for the yarns of Walter Scott, whose heroes kept their claymores hot, who stabbed and scrapped in deadly hugs, and yet were gentlemen, not thugs. The fiction writer does his best, and gives us scraps of East and West; he gives us buckets full of gore, but something's lacking, evermore. The author's tale of pirate gold and fighting men but leaves us cold. Alas, the thrills of youth are sped, and "Treasure Island" days are dead!

WALT MASON.
[Copyright, 1911, by George Matthews Adams.]

Costs Money to Be a Statesman.
This story is told by the Washington newspapers as Victor Murdock's first experience with the capital's hotels.

When Murdock arrived in Washington, a new Congressman, he went to one of the most exclusive hotels in the city and took an elaborate suite of rooms. So gorgeous were his surroundings that when Mrs. Murdock appeared on the scene she asked him what the charges were.

"Oh, I don't know," replied Murdock, unconcernedly. "I guess they are all right." "At any rate," suggested Mrs. Murdock, "you had better go down and ask the clerk."

Murdock went, but returned in a very few minutes, rushed into the room like a cyclone, and began to throw things into the trunk.

"What's the matter?" asked Mrs. Murdock. "By that time Vic was busy at the telephone and clamoring for a baggage man to appear instantly."

CHARGE GRAFT IN FOOTBALL.

College Presidents' Report Criticizes Officials.

Say Referees and Umpires Demand Too Much.

No Chance for Rugby Game in Eastern Schools.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] RICHMOND (Ind.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President R. L. Kelly, of the President's Committee which is investigating athletics in Indiana colleges and universities and particularly the football situation relative to its permanent abolishment, in a rousing speech tonight flayed football officials as grafters.

He said they are holding up the colleges for their services and this form of graft as much as anything else is prejudicing college presidents against the sport, doing much to give it a black eye.

He asserted that because these officials understand the intricate complication of the new rules and others do not they are charging exorbitant prices and making the game a professional sport instead of a clean wholesome athletic pastime as it should be. He cited instances where the expenses of one official had been as much as those of the entire visiting team and substitutes.

The suggestion that Rugby be substituted is no longer considered, said Dr. Kelly, who looks for no change in the American game before 1913. Further he declared that there is no opposition to the present game on the part of a greater majority of college presidents because of its brutality but on account of the financial drain and the loss of time from other college work.

He said that correspondence is now being carried on among college presidents looking to a solution of the question. There has been a decided movement among Indiana colleges since the death of half-back Wilson of Wabash College last fall to substitute Rugby.

SPITBALL OUT OF PLACE HERE.

PITCHER CURTIS CUTS CURVES INTO BABY DRESSES.

Wins Admiration of His Young Wife by Preparing for Visit of the Stars—New Occupation for Ball Players in Winter Keeps Them in Training.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] MARION (O.) Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It remained for Cliff Curtis, star twirler of the Boston Nationals, to set former precedent aside in baseball players' history and select for his pet hobby an innovation entirely beyond the ken of masculine diversion.

Curtis, who has been visiting his brother, A. W. Curtis of this city, with his wife, is an expert on fancy needlework. Since his marriage less than a year ago, to Miss Florence Van Sickle of Delaware, O., he has become an adept in all kinds of embroidery work and is now engaged on an elaborate design for his bride's white Marquise blouse.

Every ball player has a mania for some diversion, and Curtis declares his "besetting sin" is knitting. The elongated twirler fairly revels in his hobby and his pretty young wife is delighted with his progress in "his art."

He has embroidered a lot of beautiful floral things for the comfort of the stork to his domicile, as it is no secret that the bird is looked for very shortly. Crocheting and darning are also numbered among the accomplishments of Curtis. The twirler has declared he took to the darning out of necessity, but the embroidering and other artistic needlework perfectly suits his temperament.

WRIGHT AVIATORS QUIT PERILOUS EXHIBITIONS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] ST. LOUIS, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Appalled by the fatalities among their aviators, the Wright Brothers, promoters of aeroplane exhibitions in America, have decided to retire from the exhibition field in aeronautics. They will seek to develop a taste among American sportsmen for the art of flying and will try to create a demand for their aeroplanes by establishing a training school to teach sportsmen to fly.

These facts became known today following the visit of J. Clifford Turpin, one of the Wright aviators, who was sent from Dayton, O., to address the Aero Club of St. Louis at its annual meeting tonight.

In his address Turpin was guarded in his statements concerning the intentions of the Wrights. During the day in confidential talks with members of the Aero Club of St. Louis, Turpin was more explicit regarding the plans of his employers.

They are tired of having their men dashed to death for the purpose of Roman holidays and have taken the position that American sportsmen, if

PUG TRAINS ON THE TWO-STEP.

Danny Beecher, the waiting puglist, who trains for prize fights in a dress suit, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from Buffalo. He is anxious to join McCarey's meal ticket brigade. He has a good reputation as a lightweight.

Wishing to get at once into training, Beecher's first question when he arrived in the city was the location of the nearest dance hall.

"I find that dancing is the best possible training," he said. "When I am getting ready for a fight I dance twenty or thirty dances every evening. It takes your mind off the fight and is great for footwork. I haven't tried the grizzly bear or the turkey trot, but I guess they would be good. The two-step is better than the waltz. The latter is too dreamy."

"Be a booster and never knock," is the slogan of Ralph Hamlin, who is selling the air-cooled Franklin cars in great shape these days. Ralph was only up in the air for an hour and a half, but since that balloon flight he has enjoyed the tiled floor of his saleroom much better than he ever did before.

AD WOLGAST'S BUSY DAY MAKING BATTLE MATCHES.

HOROSCOPES by Madam Twinkle must have indicated that it was a good day for pugs to make matches yesterday.

Ad Wolgast virtually agreed to a fight with Owen Moran.

Freddie Welsh opened active negotiations for a fight with Ad Wolgast. Abe Attell agreed to fight Jim Eriscol, practically accepting the offer of Jimmie Britt, promoter, to fight Jim in London.

Britt and Hugh D. McIntosh also made a bid for a fight between the winner of the fight between Jack Johnson and Sam Langford, and Al Kaufman; the purse will be $25,000.

Uncle Tom McCarey also got the astral plume on the combination of the stars and tried to figure out a match for Young Rivers with Frankie Conley and Kilbane as the two most likely candidates.

For a lad with one arm just out of the repair shop, Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion, seems to be a busy citizen.

The dispatches yesterday stated that he had signed up for a fight with Packy McFarland; today they state that he has practically agreed to a fight with Owen Moran; Freddie Welsh is on the way to America with a fine chance of being received by Mr. Wolgast in a "listening mood."

The dicker for the finish fight with Moran was made yesterday at a meeting between Charlie Harvey of New York, representing Moran, and Tom Jones, for the champion.

They met in Wolgast's training quarters. Jones declared he was anxious for a match, as he was tired of hearing the praises of Moran as a coming champion, and he wanted to show that Wolgast is the champion. Before they got talking terms, they decided that they wanted a long fight or one to a finish, but both managers wanted more time to think the matter over before they allowed their proteges to put their names to articles.

After talking for an hour the managers and fighters agreed to meet again next Saturday, when they will put their names to articles. The fight, being a lengthy affair, must be held some place in the West, probably California, "it" said the dispatch to The Times. "It can be arranged with the authorities."

There is certainly a grand chance to "arrange it with the authorities" in California. Gov. Johnson, for instance, would probably welcome two prize fighters looking for a finish fight with open arms—and the State militia.

With Nevada on the verge of passing an anti-prizefight bill the chances for a finish fight between the champion and Moran, do not seem to be as bright as might be.

Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of England, holder of the Lonsdale belt in that division, the cleverest boxer in the ring today, the man who made Abe Attell dizzy with his speed and science, cabled he is now ready to give Ad Wolgast an argument for the world's 133-pound title. He says he will be ready to start for America.

CROWDS WILD OVER ARASEE.

Wreck Changed to a Great Stake Horse.

Eight Winning Brackets in Last Twelve Starts.

Los Angeles Thoroughbred Is Popular Hero.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the curtain goes down on racing in California, it looks as though Araisee, the little horse from Los Angeles, will be found occupying the center of the stage with the "spot light" aimed on him.

His performances at Oakland this season have made Araisee by long odds the most popular race horse in this State.

One day this week he was given at Oakland, the greatest ovation offered any race horse for many years.

The racing crowds literally went wild over the victory of Monday.

It was a deserved and popular tribute to a little horse which has made a wonderful record in a single season.

It was also a tribute to the skillful handling of the Los Angeles trainer, Early Wright, who owns the horse.

Less than a year ago Araisee appeared as though he had run his last race. He was gaunt and looked a wreck. It is doubtful if he could have been sold for a hundred dollars at that time. Early Wright brought the horse here from Los Angeles and captured the Opening Handicap with the son of Blues. Since that time he has made a brilliant record.

Although he has displayed his best form in the past month, he has won to his credit since November 15, at all distances. Araisee has sound in his last five starts, and strange to relate, has not been a favorite in the betting. It looked as if he was up against it in all of these races but the son of Blues proved equal to the hardest of tasks.

The ablest horsemen of the track labored under the impression that Wright displayed poor judgment in pitting his handicap horse against sprinters in a five furlong race, but Araisee was not to be denied and the way he closed up a gap in the last furlong was a revelation to race-goers and the cheering that greeted the horse when he forged ahead was a spontaneous recognition of a sterling performance.

Araisee has scored eight winning brackets in his last twelve starts and his victories in the mud, to which he is not supposed to be partial, has been a source of surprise to the wise division, but his consistent backers have reaped a harvest.

Early Wright is entitled to great credit for the improvement and consistency shown by Araisee in his races at Oakland. He has "turned" the horse along with consummate judgment and today Araisee is by long odds the most popular horse in California.

Blues, the sire of Araisee, was quite a race horse in his day and won among other features the Jerome Handicap with 124 lbs.

COMPANY SIXTEEN'S CRACK TEAM CLAIMS SUPERIORITY.

Daily Practice on the Court of Own Manufacture Is So Warm It Brings Out the Women With Their Knitting—Want to Meet Any Handballists in the Department.

A deft to the whole fire department has been flung out by the handball team of Fire Company No. 16.

As a result of the challenge, a big handball tournament will be arranged with several companies of the Fire Department participating.

To keep in training for that event, the men of No. 16 have built, at their own expense, a magnificent handball court next to the fire house on Hope street near Bunker Hill.

It was no light job. After securing permission from the owner of the lot, a surveyor was hired to lay out the ground and the fire boys tamped the ground for four months to get it in to condition.

Since its completion, a hard series of try-out games has been in progress. With their preliminary games

BATTING COMES NATURAL TO GIANTS' BEST HITTER.

"I NEVER recovered, my batting eye for I guess I never lost it," said Fred Snodgrass yesterday in answer to a question as to how he happened to hit so well the past season with the New York Giants.

Fred is the well-known St. Vincent's College ball player who went to the Giants three years ago and made good as soon as he was tried. After a winter in Los Angeles he will leave in a few days for Marlin, Tex., where the Giants are to do their spring training.

"It's funny," says Fred, "that some persons think because I hit nothing the first year I went to New York; about 300 the second year, and 321 last year, that I am recovering my batting eye. As a matter of fact, I never had much chance to lose it. The first year I sat on the bench and was in only parts of a very few games. Year before last I played in about twenty games and hit .300 while last year I was in 112 games and hit .321."

"I suppose from these figures that I must be what you would call a natural hitter for my average has increased with more practice. I do not have any particular method of hitting the ball and could not tell any one how to hit it. I simply hit at it and I may be lucky when I land on it. The only thing that bothers me any

Fred certainly looks the part for his skin is clear and his eyes is bright and he seems strong and rugged. He says that when you are hitting the ball nothing can stop you and when you are off your luck you can't hit a ball. All of which is true.

GIANTS ANNEX LUCKY VICTORY.

Beat Oscar Jones With Aid of Two Bad Throws.

Former Big Leaguer Pitches

Black Heaver Williams Gets Good Support.

Giants, 2; Dodgers, 1.
Williams, the negro pitcher who is one of the best heavers in the country, ran against a snafu yesterday in Oscar Jones, and yet won his game because of Jones' poor support from Third Baseman Harrison, who made two wild throws to first base. Williams was lucky, but, of course, that does not count in the averages as long as the heaver wins.

Jones was at his best, for he kept the blacks to three scattered hits, and the only one of these that amounted to anything was Williams' lucky two-bagger past first base in the fifth inning. Any man that hits an in-curve to right field must have the men on everything and particularly with two out, but this is what Williams did. He finally scored on Harrison's second wild throw past first.

Williams was also stingy with hits for he gave but five, and two of these came in the ninth inning, when he was out of the game. He was out of the game, but this is what Williams did. He finally scored on Harrison's second wild throw past first.

The Giants started their runs in the second when Booker hit to left. He advanced on Green's sacrifice bunt to Harrison, who threw the ball wildly to first base. A sacrifice by Wright put Booker on third and Green on second, and then they worked a double steal, Booker reaching the plate and Green going to third. A sufficient number of good plays to keep the fair-sized crowd of fans awake.

The Dodgers showed a number of changes in their line-up that will probably help them in the future. Heims of the Vernon team was at short; Bacon of Whittier at first; Howell in center, and Harrison of the Connecticut State League played short.

The Dodgers and Giants are to play this afternoon, and the McCormicks and Doyles are to show in the other three games this week. The score:

Early Wright's Thoroughbred Arases,

the biggest winner at Emeryville and probably the last of the great California race horses.

BARNEY SHIPS OUTLAWED CARS.

HIS FAREWELL IS A WILD BLAST OF DEFIANCE.

Says He Would Not Be Reinstated
in the A. A. A. If He Could and Claims to Have Received Mysterious Hints of Forgiveness If He Would Drop California Dates.

Barney Oldfield shipped his four machines to the City of Mexico by freight last Monday and will start for that city today or tomorrow. He has sent down his 20-horsepower Benz, his thirty-horsepower Benz, a Knox and a Darracq.

In Oldfield's party will be Jimmy Ryall, who will drive the Prince Henry Benz, and Ben Kirschner, who will drive the Knox. The three men are to race in Mexico City on February 18-19 and expect to return here March 1, after which they will make their coast dates.

Barney's farewell was a final blast of defiance to the A. A. A. which made him an outlaw.

"I wouldn't take a reinstatement from the A. A. A. if they would hand it to me on a silver platter," declared Barney, yesterday, as he pushed the button on the wall. "I can't assure you that I won't race again."

"De Palma, talk about racing me. If I can be taken back by the three A's, but if that is the condition, he and I will never meet. I wouldn't want to be reinstated by that body."

"Why should I race De Palma? I offered to give him $500 if he could lower the time of a mile that I could make on the Ascot track and he comes back with a statement about being willing to race me if I will get myself reinstated by the A. A. A. That settles the race business."

"As a matter of fact I couldn't afford to go back into the A. A. A. to race De Palma for my expenses are more every year than he makes. I've got enough dates on the California tracks to keep me busy this year and consequently I don't figure why I should waste any time on him."

"I have raced on the Ascot track and I can run at Arcadia, have a date at the big Emeryville track at Oakland and one at San Diego and I am able to run on tracks controlled by H. E. Huntington, Sprinkle and Tom Williams in this state alone. I don't see why I should foul with such as De Palma."

He has dates at San Jose, Mexico City, Santa Rosa, Stockton, Marysville, Chico and Portland, where they are to have an "outlaw" meet in June and which should I want to get back into the A. A. A.?"

Barney claims to have a mysterious "hint" indirectly from the A. A. A. that if he would drop his California dates, go back East, book up with some big auto firm and promise to be good he could be reinstated.

AVIATION MEET TODAY.

Curious Club of Boys to Give Exhibitions With Models Today at High School Campus.

A miniature aviation meet for small airplane models which the Manual Arts High School boys have constructed, is to be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Manual Arts campus, providing the weather is good.

The Curtis Aviation Club, which is made up of young airplane enthusiasts and inventors, has charge of the affair. Nine different types of machines are entered by the boy inventors. Many of them have original designs and attachments which the boys have worked out themselves.

The events will include the highest flight, best glide, start and land in a given square, and exhibition—each of which will be followed by an exhibition in the hangar.

Salvin Getting one of the officers of the club, is to give an explanation of the principles of the heavier-than-air machines, accompanied by demonstration. The airplanes are to be pulled at the end of strings by the owners and turned loose for the glides.

The boys have been unfortunate during the past few weeks, as it has rained regularly on the days which had been set for the exhibition. The delay has enabled them to perfect their machines, however, and they promise a good exhibition unless it rains again.

The entries: Edward Gettings, biplane, "La France"; octoplane, "Virginia"; Herbert Sparks, biplane, "Dear Peace";

Phonon Chaney, biplane, "Repet"; Bert Pruett, biplane, "No. 12"; Cecil Billa, monoplane, "Antoinette"; Owen Hardin, biplane, "Texas";

Holland Kinkaid, biplane, "Humming Bird"; Paul Hepburn, monoplane, "Buzsard";

P. A. Renton is occupying his new home on Harvard Heights. It is a handsome $15,000 mansion and he had two housewarming parties in the last week.

Harry Olive sold a Stoddard-Dayton touring car yesterday in five minutes. He won't admit that the man had his mind made up before he entered the Stoddard agency.

Lewis Schwabe has sold nine Premier models since the first of the year. His smile is said to be as broad as ever and he is trying now to secure two additional cars of the classy runabouts.

Volney S. Beardsley is just finding out it is hard to get Studebaker's in sufficient numbers. He did not place his estimate high enough, and now he has trouble getting them out here fast enough. How about it Volney?

Roger Miller says the demand for automobiles in the outside territory is brisk. He is making more money than ever, and he is trying to get more cars into the city. Go to it, Roger. They always make good, don't they?

D. B. Rose is taking in the delights of the Chicago show, but, according to Clarence Smith, his friend "Rose" puts most of his time in between the Elmore and the Stearns booths.

Tom Williams thinks he looks particularly fetching at the wheel of the new Everitt touring car. He can't drive the fore-draw any longer, because he has a good excuse. It's sold.

Fred Williams says he feels just the same since he became an outlaw. He felt funny when it was impossible to get out on the boards of the Motor dome, but hopes to be reinstated some day. Keep believing, Freddie.

Charlie C. Anthony is too busy these days to walk to the California Club for lunch. He needs the exercise, but he has no time. The Packards are selling so fast that he must be on the job every minute, so he rides over a block.

W. H. Halliwell is here again after a swift tour around the circuit. He looks well but is no nearer being a benedict than he was when he left, according to W. H.

CHAMPIONS I HAVE KNOWN IN MY CHECKERED CAREER.

Defeated the Majority.

BY ALFRED JORDAN.

Checker champion of England and winner in tour of the world.

THE great James Wylie, commonly known as the grand old man of checkers, who was born at Fife, Scotland, acquired and held the title of champion of the world for thirty years, dying a few years since at the age of 80. I played him four games soon after his return from Australia and New Zealand about the year 1891, when we won one game each with two draws.

Wylie was slightly deaf, thoroughly wrapped up in draughts, and impressed me as taking little interest in anything else. I regard him as the most notable player who ever lived.

Richard Martin, a Cornishman, who, by reason of his passing much of his time in Scotland, became popularly known as a Scotchman, was one of Wylie's greatest rivals for the championship of the world and something playing Wylie, I met and played Martin two games, both of which were drawn.

Richard Jordan, probably the greatest player that ever lived—that is, in my opinion—another native of Edinburgh, is still champion of the world, though he announced his retirement some years ago. I have played him altogether eleven games, all of which were drawn. Richard is about two years younger than myself, which makes him about 25.

Another famous player is R. Stewart, five times champion of Scotland, a famous blindfold player. I met him once in an international match, England against Scotland, when we played six games—all drawn.

G. Buchanan, now dead, was three times champion of Scotland. Out of several games played with him, I was a few games to the good.

Another famous player is James Forrie, I think now the present Scottish champion. He has won that championship several times in the national tournaments, and is undoubtedly one of the best players of the world. He is ex-champion of the world, having won the world's championship

ASKS HIM TO RECONSIDER. Episcopal Board of Missions Regrets Resignation of Rev. Lee and Commends His Work in the Community.

At a meeting of the Episcopal Diocesan Board of Missions held yesterday at the Board of Missions, and its pastor, Rev. P. Lee, has been a force for righteousness among the men of the community, we notice with sincere regret the announcement of his resignation. We express our sympathy with his parish and trust the efforts now being made to induce him to reconsider his decision may be successful, not only for the sake of his parish, but also for the sake of the entire community.

MAITO BEATS KNIGHT. NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Johnny Maito of New York had the better of every one of the ten rounds of the boxing with Phil Knight of Kansas City at the National Sporting Club tonight. He outpointed Knight by a year and a day, but despite the blows he struck Knight, he was unable to knock out or disable the sturdy Western lad.

NEW ENTRY BLANKS. A new set of entry blanks and programs of events is to be printed for the A.A.U. track meet, which is to be held at Harvard field February 23. This action was decided upon by the committee in charge of the meet as the best means of strengthening out the misunderstanding which arose over the previous blanks that were printed.

Should the 21-year-old driver win the big road race, he will return here for a match race with Ralph De Palma. This will mean a contest for the championship of the world.

WILCOX BAGS BRACE OF DUCKS IN CENTER OF PIE-PAN TRACK. HAI, WILCOX has gone to San Francisco to take part in the Panama-Pacific road race. Before he left he shot two red head ducks on the lagoon in the center of the track. This is the first time big ducks have been hunted successfully on open water so close to Los Angeles.

While the big six-cylinder National was being cranked for the drive to Los Angeles, the crack racing pilot took his shotgun and snaked across the center of the track where he has won such signal victories.

A mallard, alarmed at the sight of the wiry young aviator, flew away and "Coxy" feared he had lost his meal. He dropped to his stomach in the mud and began a record crawl of half a mile. He reached the edge of the pool without disturbing the two red heads. Jumping to his feet, Wilcox took careful aim and fired. In his excitement he pulled both triggers and was kicked backwards into the slush. When he recovered he saw the brace of ducks floating on the water. He waded into the pool and earned his toothsome meal.

Just what Wilcox will do in San Francisco is hard to say. He is ready to drive at top speed with his fast stable of cars. He is taking the six-cylinder and the two forty-horse-power cars into the fray and hopes to win. There are those who will wager large sums on the chances of the lad who made such a hit in Los Angeles.

Auto fans are figuring on Wilcox to win the northern battle. He is one of the youngest drivers in the race and has bounced into prominence with a burst of speed that seems to indicate his class. He has plenty of nerve.

The Panama-Pacific race date is Washington's birthday. The course is good except for the back stretch, which is narrow. Wilcox expects to spend his time mastering the turns with the National racers.

Should the 21-year-old driver win the big road race, he will return here for a match race with Ralph De Palma. This will mean a contest for the championship of the world.

DAMNING PLOT IS FORCED OUT.

Attorney for Labor Unions Has to Take Stand.

Is Made to Tell About War on Industries.

Incidents in Trial of Grow on Assault Charge.

The unique spectacle of the paid and trusted attorney of the union labor element of Los Angeles being called to the stand and divulging damning truths concerning the criminal tactics resorted to by his employers during the recent industrial disturbances was presented in Judge McCormick's court yesterday afternoon in the trial of Charles F. "Curley" Grow, for having feloniously assaulted Edward C. Hoffman, member 12, last.

Attorney Fred J. Spring, one of the most consistent performers employed by the local unions, was the victim. Since Grow's trial opened on Wednesday he has been acting as his chief counsel. Yesterday when Deputy District Attorney Horton called him to testify concerning industrial conditions during the troubled period just past, it caused no little surprise. Grow himself gazed several times at a disbelieving gaze as he listened to the charges against him.

On the stand Spring was forced to admit that he had been employed by the defense's line of action. He was forced to admit that he had been employed by the defense's line of action. He was forced to admit that he had been employed by the defense's line of action.

MADE FIGHT ON QUESTIONS. And all this Spring testified to with the greatest reluctance. He weighed his words carefully, and endeavored to make a legal reply to the questions of the defense. At times he fought both and nail to avoid the most incriminating questions that were put to him by the prosecutor.

MAKES GROW WINCH. Testimony that struck home and made Grow wince, was introduced by C. M. Thaxter, a ranchman for twenty years near what is now Latin street. He stated that on the day Hoffman was brutally beaten, he had observed from a distance the vicarage of the poolroom at Latin.

One of the men looked exactly like Hoffman, testified Thaxter.

"You positive?" queried Attorney Spring for the defense.

"Yes, yes," said Thaxter. "So sure as that if I saw him, he was in the room on the day of the assault."

"Now do you remember him so sure?" asked Appel.

"I am sure he has a set of features that I can never forget," answered the witness.

That was all of that kind of testimony that the defense could stand. The accused, however, was not to be deterred. He continued to make a fight of it, and his testimony was a source of amusement to the spectators.

KING AND CANNON.

man who is sometimes hasty in his speech, which has made him a fair mark for the shafts from the opposition press. We in Danville think that Mr. Cannon has been made the scapegoat for everything that the opposition desired to call attention to.

"We have expected that the opposition would immediately jump upon the alleged vote-buying in Danville as an opportunity to jump on Mr. Cannon, but so far their efforts to connect him with the purchase of votes have failed. His name has never been mentioned on that at no time was he ever in doubt as to his big majority following him to the polls."

Mr. King is a big man with a strong, ruddy face and talks forcefully as if he was well acquainted with what he wanted to say. He is a banker who has made good and is a thorough admirer of Uncle Joe Cannon and points to thirty years of close business and personal acquaintance with him as a proof of what he is saying. He says that Uncle Joe is the idol of Danville and will continue to be so no matter whether he is re-elected Speaker of the House or not. He says that he will be just as welcome when he returns to Danville as plain Congressman Cannon as he has been when he has been the so-called "Cannon Cannon" of the House.

Mr. King and his son will devote a few weeks to touring throughout Southern California and then Mr. King will return to his home in Danville, where his business is calling him, but his son will remain in California several months.

WINTER ELEVEN GIVES PLAY.

INTERPRETS "THE LION AND THE MOUSE."

Drama, American in Spirit and Full of Incident, Holds Attention of the Audience From the Time of the First Curtain to the Very Last Word.

The winter "11 class of Los Angeles High School closed its dramatic work with an event of real interest and merit in presenting, yesterday afternoon and evening, the American drama, "The Lion and the Mouse," by Charles Klein.

Tyler Robinson, president of the class, made a brief address in which he expressed upon behalf of the class and himself regret at saying "good-bye" to the school.

Even upon its first presentation, on Thursday afternoon, the play went as smoothly as a professional performance. There was no hesitation, no garbling of lines, no hitches in the scenic effects or breaks in the work of the actors.

The play, which is truly American and full of life and incident, held the audience from the time the curtain first went up to the very last word, when every eye reached a happy solution of all difficulties.

There were four acts and three scenes. The setting was tasteful, the lighting excellent and, in fact, all details were well carried out.

Credit is due Miss Jane Butt for her dramatic work in training the actors for their parts and to the young people themselves who were anything but amateurish. MacCallister Dorsey as stage manager and Dave Newman as electrician also deserve praise. The orchestra, under Miss Byrth's direction, added to the pleasure of the occasion.

The cast follows: John Burkett, Ryder, Paul Penbody; Jefferson Ryder, his son, Marshall Taylor; Judge Rosemore, Percy Major; Hon. Fitzgibbon, Ryder's Secretary; Gardner Walker, Rosemore's Secretary; Omer Redway; ex-Judge Stott, a friend of Rosemore's; W. Robertson Ralston; Rev. Pontifex Deale; J. Eugene Stanton; Johnnie, J. Harper Edmonson; ex-pressman, Max Greub; Shirley Rosemore; Isabella MacCallister; Mrs. John Burkett Ryder, Mona Moody; Mrs. Rosemore, Mrs. Edmonson; Irma, Irma; Arminia Nesbitt, Ruth Lorraine; Edna, Ruth Shelton; Thirza, Gertrude.

The class teachers of the winter "11 were Miss Belle Cooper and Miss Elizabeth T. Sullivan.

The class roll comprises: Margaret E. Andrews, George Albert Baker, Arthur Geoffrey Bailey, Estene Eugenia Batcher, Dorothy Mary Beath, Edith K. Bokenkrager, Anna Catherine Borgwardt, Hazel Born, Harry Leonard Boyd, Omar Fred Bradway, Vivian Chase, George Williams Clark, Y. A Fool and His Money. Egbert—Oh, yes! I hit upon a plan which I thought would work. I wrote a note inclosing $10 and tied both about the cat's neck. The note read: "Fisher may keep both the cat and the money." "And how did it work?" "That cat came back the next day with another note tied to its neck. It read: "Don't need the cat, but can use the money." Please send $10 more."

her. She says she caught the house-keeper and her husband "making eyes" and holding whispered conversations.

A few days after Mrs. Childs left, King also disappeared. That was about January 1. During the next two weeks he attended to his business, but since he has not been seen of late, it is believed he went to Seattle. The Kings have one child, a girl of 7 years.

When Mrs. King called at the plant several days ago, she learned from her husband's partner, that King had not been there for some time. Further inquiry showed that he had mortgaged his holdings in the concern for their full value before leaving. Mrs. King also learned that King had been seen going toward the Arcade station with Mrs. Childs by one of the employees of the plant.

An effort will be made to locate King and have him prosecuted. It is believed he went to Seattle. The Kings have one child, a girl of 7 years.

PEDDLER TRIED TO "CLEAN UP" GROCERY.

Witnesses Say When Peddler Interfered Man Hurling Fruit at Him With Great Force and Compelled Him to Eat—Motorcycle Patrolman Made Record Run.

Seemingly enraged because he failed to sell Mrs. E. Abelson a sack of potatoes last evening, Dan McMahon proceeded to make lively in the grocery store of Mrs. Abelson at No. 4735 Huntington drive.

According to the statement of witnesses to the proceedings, he tried by shaking her to compel her to give him $5. Failing in this, he drove a customer around the shop, pelting him with oranges, and finally forced him, by dire threats, to eat one of them. What else might have happened had not a patrolman made a record run from the East Side station and arrested the festive peddler, the neighborhood shudder to think of.

McMahon and his partner in the peddling business drove up to the grocery about dark. There were two customers in the store at the time, but he brushed them aside and strode to the counter, demanding that Mrs. Abelson purchase of his wares. Mrs. Abelson did not wish any potatoes. No matter, even if the price was going up because of the corner, she courteously declined to add any to her present stock of goods. She told the impatient and loud-voiced vender of green goods that several times.

"Well, then," shouted McMahon, "maybe you've got about $5 you want to give me."

"I've got $5, yes," returned Mrs. Abelson, "but you're not going to get any of it." With that she retreated behind the counter, McMahon close behind.

At this point one of the customers, David Curr, interposed with the intention of protecting the woman. McMahon's reply was startling. He reached for a convenient crate and Curr, was presently the center of a perfect hail of oranges, thrown with great precision and lightning speed. Blinded and dazed, he turned to flee. McMahon chased him around the store until all the oranges were gone and the fugitive driven into a corner. The militant peddler found an orange and gave it to him.

"Here, you, eat that," he said harshly. "Maybe it'll teach you not to interfere in my business after this."

Terrified Curr meekly sat in the corner and did as he was told. As he was munching, though with but poorly simulated appetite, on the fruit, McMahon again drove upon him, saying that he was hungry and that he would eat a whole crate of oranges.

McMahon was placed under arrest. Whether he was drunk, or only attempting a real holdup or only, he said, "having a little fun," the officers have not decided. McMahon will probably get a chance to tell in Police Court this morning.

CAPTIVE UNDER TWO FLAGS.

American Prospector Says He Is Direct From Imprisonment by Mexican Troops and Revolutionists.

Direct from imprisonment, he said, both by the revolutionists and the Federal soldiers of Mexico, George E. Squires, an American prospector, arrived yesterday afternoon, at the Hotel.

He carried a sack of ore slung over one shoulder, while in the other hand he toiled with a large portable lantern. The Federal troops took on them as a menace in so far as there are quite a number of Americans enlisted in the cause of Mexico at present. The Federal troops took on them as a menace in so far as there are quite a number of Americans enlisted in the cause of Mexico at present.

Squires declared that he struck it very rich near Tanchil, and expects that his samples will prove his assertion and that he will be a wealthy man in a short time.

IS THINNESS EMBARRASSING?

Undoubtedly it is to Many a Maiden and Youth—While Even Those Well Along in Years Prefer Well Rounded Figures.

Prescription Increases Weight.

A scrawny, gangling youth or maiden is almost invariably slighted, overlooked or ridiculed in any social gathering. There is something about a plump or well proportioned figure which attracts not only friendship, but love and admiration as well.

People with a proper amount of flesh are favored in all walks of life, while the thin are unloved, unwellcome and frequently miserable for life. The difference lies in the power of the digestive functions and the ability of the blood and nerves to absorb and distribute over the body the nutrition extracted from the food eaten.

The thin person is abnormal and lacks the power to absorb and retain the flesh and fat elements which the gastric juices in the stomach and intestines but in favor to absorb and retain from all kinds of food and drink.

A recent accidental discovery has proven that tincture cadomene when blended with certain other drugs, will add from one to three pounds of flesh per week during treatment, while the general health and strength also improve wonderfully.

Get in a half pint bottle three ounces of essence of poppin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb; then add one ounce tincture cadomene and shake well and take a teaspoonful before and after meals, drinking plenty of water between meals and when retiring.

from Los Angeles to Sacramento as the representative of the committee. This letter stated that Koppel had seen Lissmer and that Lissmer had advised him to see Earl, telling him that the plan would be unlikely to succeed unless Earl would endorse it and his newspaper would endorse it because the Congress was the organ of the administration in Southern California. Superintendent Koppel said that he found Earl enthusiastically opposed to a university of a kind that would be a school. The State Earl argued, needed a great school of this kind and San Francisco would get it unless Los Angeles got after it. He thought that now was the most appropriate time to make a move of this kind and Superintendent Koppel explained that in the circumstances he had agreed to go and had gone after the only thing which seemed possible.

McCallum spoke to this letter, saying that Southern California is larger than any one man in it, and that no one man or handful of men can prevent Southern California securing a university. He said that the teachers are for the university and that 10,000 citizens have signed a petition asking for it. This number could be increased to 100,000 as soon as the teachers in view of this popular demand of the South, the committee could not do otherwise, he thought, than stand by its guns and insist upon a university.

QUICKLY TABLED.

S. M. Davis of Santa Ana said that as a teacher he moved that the committee appoint a committee of nine college presidents which had been suggested by an outside source. Davis was instantly satisfied as to what the feeling on this question might be as his motion was unanimously tabled.

George S. Larkey, president of the Teachers' Association, arose to defend the teachers from any charge of having criticized Superintendent Koppel. He said, however, that it was the business of the teachers to express their opinions on this matter and that the teachers were for a university. A. L. Hamilton, superintendent of the public schools at Pasadena, favored taking the school of technology while we can get it and of getting a university when we can. Mr. Davis spoke in the same tenor, declaring that it will require some years to secure the university and mentioning the State school may as well have another good school.

Dr. J. P. Widney, representing the North, Northeast and Northwest Improvement Association, read a communication from that body, setting forth reasons why the South should insist on a university. Dr. Widney's association also submitted circulars to the individuals present which recommended Elvino Park as a university site. Capt. L. Hansen of Pasadena, was present and took an active part in the meeting. He favored securing both schools. Mrs. Rudwick F. S. de Dodson, who has offered a million dollar site for the university at San Pedro, did not speak. Her offer holds good only for universities. The offer of the Los Angeles Investment Company of 100 acres and $100,000 in money holds good either for the school of technology or the university, as the company wants the school as a good business investment.

Attorney Gould, H. L. Martin, H. Rebock, Dr. Gregory and others spoke for and against the various resolutions which were like breakers and like breakers, fell with no more effect.

Michael Alexander, of the firm of L. and M. Alexander, Pacific Coast representatives of the L. C. Smith Typewriter Company, is registered at the Alexandria from San Francisco.
